The Times' Daily Short Story.

The Fog Guide.

(Original.)

Having been commissioned by a publishing house to write a life of one of England's great political leaders, I went to London and took apartments where I should be nearest the reference libraries I should need to consult. One day while I was on the street the city was suddenly enveloped in a fog. It was so dense that I could not see my hand held eighteen inches from my face. I could hear the shouts of the drivers in the street, who at once began to creep along and even at this pace came into frequent collision. I heard footfalls about me, and now and again some one, doubtless more used to fogs and not to be stopped by them, brushed against me. Suddenly I felt a light touch on the arm, and a hand slid down it and grasped mine.

"Show you the way, sir?" I caught at the offer eagerly, for there was confidence in the man's tone. "Get me out of this," I said, "and I will pay you well." Then I gave him my street and number.

He moved off at a pace that astonished me. How he dared proceed at what on a clear day I would have considered an ordinary gait I could not imagine. Now and again above the confusion of noises I heard a tapping as of some one hitting the pavement with a stick. Strange to say, we jostled no one, and no one jostled us, but I could feel my guide pull or push me to one side or the other in order to avoid collision.

"Are you a stranger in London, sir?" he asked.

"Yes, an American."

"An American? Then I am conducting an fellow countryman?"

"Indeed! How came you to be a fog conductor in London?"

"I came here to find a better literary field than ours in America."

"And got stranded?"

"Yes."

"I am a literary man myself and am here now doing literary work, but I have an order."

"You're fortunate. I had no orders. I had some success at first, but my wife sickened and died, and my daughter became a confirmed invalid. This reduced me to working on potboilers, and at last—"

"Even they would not boil the pot?"

"They did till my daughter failed me as an amanuensis—"

"At this moment, whether the man's mind was taken from his present work by his misfortunes or through carelessness, we were nearly knocked down by some one proceeding more rapidly than was safe. After this we ceased our conversation. As to our location, I had no knowledge of it whatever, but my guide told me he knew exactly where we were. In about an hour from our starting he led me up to a door, which he opened, and we stood in the hall of a tenement house.

"This is not my lodging house," I said sharply, fearful that I had been tricked.

"Forgive me," said the man, who I could now see was intellectual looking, but very shabby. "I live here. I have brought you to my home to show you what can happen to an American who trusts himself on the literary sea of London." He opened a door and took me into a room, or, rather, two rooms communicating. In one of them on a couch lay a girl with the staring eyes and hectic cheek of a consumptive.

"I would offer you some refreshments," said the man, "but there is not a crust of bread here. We have neither fuel nor lights, and my poor daughter, far from having the delicacies she needs, has not even ordinary food."

"I am taking no credit to myself in saying that I relieved their distress. It would be a flinty heart that could refuse a fellow countryman in a strange land. While I was listening to a more detailed story of their lives a ray of sunlight came streaming in at the window, and, taking a memorandum of their location, I left them."

One day the father appeared at my apartments to tell me that his daughter had but a short time to live and desired to thank me in person for what I had done for them. I promised to be there the same afternoon. I expected a melancholy scene and preferred to get through my day's work before entering upon what would interfere with that condition of mind necessary to mental effort.

During the afternoon I went to their rooms. They were alone together, the father being the sole minister to his daughter's comfort. The remains of some delicacies I had sent a few days before were on a table. The invalid was resting in a steamer chair, and I approached her with a sad heart.

I can never forget the look of gratitude that accompanied the girl's words. Only an exile who had been succored by one from her native land could have felt as she felt. When I took my departure I asked her father, who spoke only by a pressure of the hand, to let me know more of his daughter's condition.

The next day I received word from him that she was dead. I went immediately to the old man to cheer him by the announcement that I had made arrangements for his return to America. On leaving him I laid some bank notes on the table and called his attention to them. He went to the table and felt over it till he touched them.

He was stone blind.

When I finished my labors, which I did soon after his daughter's death, I took him with me to America. There I secured some literary work for him to do.

PEASANTS RESTIVE

Disorders Started in Several Russian Provinces

STOLYPIN GIVES ORDERS

To Arrest Agitators—Not Even Douma Members Are to Be Spared—Prince Nikaridze and Capt. Kosloff in Shooting Affray.

St. Petersburg, March 19.—With the opening of parliament, March 5, peasant disorders recommenced in several provinces and apparently the result of organized agitation. In addition to an outbreak in Vladimir province, where 500 drunken peasants wrecked the government spirit stores before they were dispersed by volleys fired by the police, resulting in eight peasants being killed, fatal affrays between the peasants and police occurred in Saratov and Kiev provinces, where attempts to take possession of private estates were renewed. Premier Stolypin has sent a circular to the governors enjoining them to arrest all agitators, even members of parliament, and to take the strictest measures to stop the disorders and protect the rights of property. Negligent officials will be held responsible.

PRINCE LOST EAR IN FIGHT.

Capt. Kosloff May Die from Shots Received in St. Petersburg Row.

St. Petersburg, March 19.—A shooting affray occurred in the dining hall of the Grand Hotel de Europe between Prince Nikaridze, a marshal of the nobility from Kutais, and Capt. Kosloff of the East Siberia sharpshooters. In the midst of a spirited argument concerning the autonomy of the Caucasus, Prince Nikaridze made a disparaging remark about Russian military prestige.

Thereupon Capt. Kosloff drew his revolver and fired at the prince's ear. Reaching into his pocket the prince pulled a revolver and taking aim fired twice, the bullets penetrating the neck and breast of the captain.

A surgeon was called in and sewed on the prince's severed ear. Captain Kosloff's wounds are considered dangerous.

COULDN'T GET BAIL.

Jasper Fairchild Likely to Remain in Jail for Shooting.

Burlington, March 19.—A young man, Jasper Fairchild, 18 years of age and not much more than a school boy was arraigned in Burlington city court yesterday on the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to kill. He was placed under bonds of $1,500, which he has not yet furnished.

The case seems to be one of the love of two young people and the serious objection of the girl's father. It seems Mr. Fairchild had been attention to the 16-year-old daughter of Noah E. Phelps, a rural free delivery carrier of Milton. These attentions were not at all to the satisfaction of the young girl's father. He had previously objected to Fairchild and said so. But Miss Phelps had evidently not taken her father seriously.

Yesterday afternoon she was out walking with young Mr. Fairchild at Milton. Mr. Phelps saw his daughter and took her away from Fairchild.

Last night Mr. Fairchild procured a double barreled shot-gun and fired through the window of the Phelps residence. He claims he was angry at Mr. Phelps. Although the glass was more or less shattered, nobody was injured. Young Fairchild is therefore under suspicion.

FOR SHOOTING INTO HOUSE.

Jasper Fairchild, Young Man Was Arrested in Milton Sunday Night.

Milton, March 19.—Jasper Fairchild was arrested Sunday night on the charge of shooting through a window of the residence of N. E. Phelps, with the intention of harming Mr. Phelps for some real or fancied wrong. Mrs. Phelps who was 70 years old with a nervous trouble is now in a critical condition. The man arrested is about twenty years of age.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY BLEW UP JENA, HE SAYS.

Spark in Powder Magazine as Result of Secondary Heretic Waves.

Toulon, March 9.—M. Naudin, the wireless telegraph expert, has advanced a new theory regarding the cause of the disaster to the battleship Jena, whose aftership was destroyed by the explosion of a magazine March 15, resulting in considerable loss of life.

He says that at the time of the explosion it was noted that powerful wireless currents were passing, and he believes that the vessel's isolation in the drydock here, resulted in the accumulation of secondary Heretic waves in the "B" power magazine from the ship's wireless apparatus, and that on outside current communicated a high tension spark.

TRIED TO BREAK IN EDDY HOUSE.

Woman Thought to Be Insane Stopped By Strang After Smashing Window.

Concord, N. H., March 19.—Mrs. Margaret Bluntch of Hartford, Conn., who tried to break into Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy's house, Pleasant View, Friday night last, was sent back to Hartford last night, after the police had been in communication with her friends there.

The woman arrived in the city at 8:30 Friday evening and remained about the station until nearly 11, when she went to Pleasant View. After trying to gain access at the front door, she went around to the rear and broke a window.

The noise aroused Lewis C. Strang. He went to the basement and discovered the woman in the act of breaking into the house and sent her away.

He then notified the police, but said that if it was desired that any steps be taken to apprehend the woman he would notify them later.

At 2 o'clock she asked Officer Follows to be directed to a first class hotel, and she was sent to the Eagle house.

On Saturday she told City Marshall Rand that she had a message for Mrs. Eddy; that she was a Christian Scientist, and was the only one who could communicate with Mrs. Eddy through the medium of the mind.

This talk convinced the marshal that the woman was not all right mentally. He learned she was formerly a teacher in the Hartford public schools.

CATTLEMAN SENTENCED TO TERMS IN JAIL.

Four Convicted of Conspiracy to Defraud The Government.

Omaha, Neb., March 19.—The most important land case in Nebraska ended yesterday in the sentence of four prominent and influential cattlemen by Judge W. H. Munger of the United States court. Bartlett Richards and William G. Comstock were sentenced to pay a fine of $1,500 and serve a year in the Douglas county jail; Charles G. Jameson and Aquilla Triplett were sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and serve eight months in the same jail.

These men were indicted by the Federal grand jury in May, 1926, for conspiracy to defraud the United States out of use, possession, and title to public land, consisting of upward of 200,000 acres in northwestern Nebraska. All the defendants made motions for appeal, which will be argued later.

COAL FAMINE ON

Battlegrounds Hit Hard by Scarcity of It.

Battlegrounds, March 19.—A coal famine, which has been threatening all winter, has at last arrived, and there is but little coal to be had. For over a week no dealer has been entirely out, and has not been able to get any that he has ordered months ago. The other of the two dealers in town was in a like predicament, but a consignment of several carloads placed him out of harm's way for a time.

If there should be a cold spell there is not enough coal in town to last two days.

As matters are at present, many families are burning wood or are letting the furnace fires go out, preferring to depend upon stores for heat than to bother with a furnace.

The reason for the dearth of coal is that no cars are being received as freight, if they are loaded with coal, by the Boston & Maine railroad, and none at all are taken by the Central Vermont, which has 1,000 cars on its hands that it cannot move. Between here and St. Albans the Crosby company, grain dealers of this town, have over 150 cars which they cannot get and a loaded freight train has been standing on a siding at one station for a month with no engine to move it.

Peanut Oil in Demand as a Substitute for Olive Oil.

Because of a poor olive crop in Spain the demand for peanuts is brisk, and the peanut growers in the Province of Valencia are holding their crop for a high price. Peanut oil is largely used by the Spaniards instead of olive oil and the peanut competes with the olive at the oil crushers. The consular report from which this information is taken does not say whether or not the Spanish dealers sell the peanut oil as olive oil. They may be more scrupulous in their trade designations than some dealers in cotton seed oil have been—Youth's Companion.

CARS PLENTY; TRAFFIC GAINS.

B. &amp; M. Buys Freighters and Is Rushing Tons of Grain East.

Chicago, Ill., March 19.—Better operating weather and an increased supply of box cars has eased up the traffic situation in the West and Southwest to a moderate extent.

A factor that has enabled the movement of grain to the East has been the turning out of many freight cars by the Pullman company for the Boston & Maine railroad. These cars have been turned over to western connections, loaded with grain and sent east.

This has relieved this congestion of grain somewhat, but there is still millions of bushels to go out as fast as cars can be secured.

Sensational crop reports have been sent out for market purposes from the Southwest, but experts say that outside of damage in Texas and in southern Oklahoma, where the wheat acreage is light, the crop injury to date is small.

There is the prospect of a large tonnage in grain for months to come, even though there might be smaller crops than last year. This is indicated by the government report on farm resources issued a week ago. Grain traffic was heavier, there being deliveries at Chicago of 5,238,000 bushels, an increase of 208,000 bushels for the week, and of 2,512,000 bushels over last year or 45 per cent.

GEN. JOSEPH STOCKTON DEAD.

One of Chicago's Oldest Settlers Dies in That City.

Chicago, March 19.—General Joseph Stockton, one of Chicago's oldest settlers, died Sunday after an illness of several weeks.

He was born in Pittsburgh on August 10, 1833, and in July, 1862, enlisted in the 73d Illinois volunteers, known as the First Board of Trade regiment. After the fall of Vicksburg he assumed command of the regiment, and after the battle of Franklin, Tenn., in which he was wounded, was breveted colonel and brigadier general. He was a member of the board of commissioners of Lincoln park from 1880 to 1890 and brought about the erection of the Grant monument.

General Stockton was chief marshal of every great Republican or patriotic procession in Chicago since the war.
